Crisp Makes a Great Speech at Atlanta.

The Speaker Says the United States Government

Georgia legislature to-night. He had preciated because of the ap ically for the free coiusge of both gold year ago. and silver at the present ratic, and arguing that the United State with her powerful to establish himetallism the world over.

His speech was received with the greatest enthusiasm. Mr. Crisp hegan by stating that of course it was underatood he spoke as a Democrat. The Democratis party was born with the government. It stands for certain principles, local self government, economy in public affairs, equal rights to all and special privileges to none, for a low tariff, "and iu my judgment," he said, "It has always stood for bimetallism and upon that subject I the equality of the two melals at the years ago. mint is not bimetallism."

Mr. Crisp then went into the history lion value of the silver dollar was 3 benefit of the people of this section. cents more thau the hullion value of a quoted from Thurman, Allison, Gar. ard." field. Blaize, Locke and others to show that it was not known at the time that the hill demonetized silver.

He followed this with an announcement that from that day to this the majority of the Democratic party had been working to rehabilitate silver. The single gold standard was a Republican measure. He analyzed every vote on the silver question taken iu congress since 1873 to show that a great majority of Democrats had voted every time for the free coinage of silver, except in 1893 when the propositiou to repeal the Sherman law was up, and at that time it was because they expected to have au opportunity to vote subsequently for a sub-measure. And even they there was but two Democratic majority.

The single gold standard had never met with the approval of the majority financial legislation as it had gone of Democrats of this country. He said there was no advantage in having silver as a money, unless it stood upon at a large a greater hlessing than was saved from the wreck of '94, ninety men who happened to be on the its feet. He stated that he did not rendered when she taught them that were members of the last Congress. intend to say that a man who favored the single gold was not a Democrat, but he did meau to say that the vast majority of the Democratic party had always been in favor of the bimetallic standard.

Mr. Crisp exhibited a small piece of silver hullion which he expected could not be used as money in any way. It could not be used with which to purchase commodities, but if there was a law allowing it to be taken to a mint celved this morning by the Angloand coined then everybody would want Armenian Association: it. He illustrated by showing that when the sinate passed a free coinage hill neven years ago, the bulllon value of allyer rose 23 cents an ounce in 10 days in the London market.

"You need not be apprehensive of any flood of silver." he announced. There was no country in the world Christians of Northern Syria is exthat would ship its silver here to exchange it for gold. We had gained and silver. Gold, he held, was too to the bloodshed in Asla Minor.

"Our people should be the pioneers in restoring a money metal which has been used for all time, but recently stricken down.

"The stamp upon a silver dollar does not make it more valuable in another country, but the right of silver to be so stamped increases its bullion value."

In speaking of the value of cotton he said that though the cotton crop appreclated 50 per cent in the decade before the war the price increased 40 Atlanta. Nov. 13.-Ex-Speaker per cent. In speaking of the final result of th fight for free silver he said that he re membered when 40 Democrats had stood up in congress and voted against tariff reform. In speaking of the next Democratic national convention, he said Georgia should define herself on this financial question. One of the questions to be decided was the retirement of the $500,000,000 of paper money. If the single gold standard is to be perpetuated, that money must be retired.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION:

T is put up on selentific principles for Prime Butter Making. It is acknowledged by all who use it to be the best, cheapest, easiest cleaned and adjusted, simplest constructed, and most durable in make, of any churn over offered to the American public. Every particle of cream is agitated thoroughly and alike, and at the same time the oxygenating process is complete. It will readily be seen from the Cnt that the power can easily be attached to a stone jar or the ordinary reciprocating clurn. The dasher-blades are formed spirally on two shafts. The inner shaft is hollow and when in operation the dashers run in epposite directions, drawing the contents of the churn from the bottom, causing a slight vacuum, which is filled with air admitted through the air shaft. The advantage in admitting air to the loterior of the churn is as follows: The rapid beating of the dashers cause the air to mingle intimately with the milk, and the oxygen in the air combines with the sugar in the milk and produces lactic acid which curds the casine (cheese matter), thus separating from butter when the butter globules are ruptured by agitation.

No other method, patented or unpatented, can so easily and continually lift the cream from the bottom, and so thoroughly agitate and combine with it the necessary oxygen as these spiral dashers do. The operation, is in a measure, noiseless, no plunging or jarring motion is heard or felt. A six year old child can do the churning, with perfect ease, while the mother is in an adjoining room entertaining visitors, who will know nothing of any churning being done.

By referring to cut, see rope in grooved wheel and running round pully at the side of the churn, shows plainly that with a smail rope it can be attached to wind pump, or any lower power desirable can be used, such as dog, sheep or goat power, or it may be run by crank on smaller churns. By loosening set screws on legs they can be widened or narrowed to suit month of churn to which they are applied. There n Assertion That Chimes as Now Given We assert, as the result of a pretty wide experience, that there is probably not a single bell in England that is really "in tune with itself" and almost certainly not a single "peal" of bells that are properly in tune with each other. We do not say that there are not many peals which are in excellent tune us to the most important note in each and their general musical effect very pleasing. But we do assert that the best of these might be much better, and in the majority of cases the irregularities we complain of are such are seriously mar their musical effect and such aught to be und might be averted by more intelligent founding or in most eases rectified by more intelligent tuning after founding. This whole matter turns on the meaning of the expression "in tune with itself." Most people have an idea that every bell has one preminent, unmistakable note which characterizes it and as to whose pitch no two people with musical very peculiar form of bell which with slight modifications has been preserved for so many hundreds of years was adopted without the deliberate purpose of insuring that the various tones and subtones of each bell should be in some fixed musical relation to each other. That relation is this: Every truo bell should give out when fairly struck a fundamental note or "tonie," its third, fifth and octave above and its octave below, thus sounding the full chorddo, mi, sol, do, with the bass do below. This is the theory which was, we are satisfied, before the minds of the original designers of the present form of hell. Almost fergotten, if ever realized, by many of their successors, it is still recognized by some and irresistibly forced upon the acceptance of those who, like the present writer, have made a study of the tones of bells as they are.

Let us dismiss all consideration of Galloping up to the disorganized no longer attempted to suppress, Paul gave vent to the following original and effective speech: "Ofiloers and troopers of the imperial horse guards, right about face Quick-march-to Siberia!"

The entire regiment, with unbroken composure and dignity, wheeled to the right and started off then and there upon their terrible march into exile. By the time they had arrived at a point lying some for days' march from the capital, the czar's temper having cooled down, swift couriers were dispatched after the exiled guards with news of the imperial clemency, and the troops were allowed to return.

THE RUDDER.

Of what are you thinking, my lillle lad, with the honest eyes of blue,
As you watch the vessels that slowly glide
o'er the level ocean floor? eautiful, graceful, silent as dreams, they pass away from our view,
And down the slope of the world they go to seek some faroff shore.

They seem to be senttered ahroad by chance, to move at the breeze's will.

Almlessly wandering hilber and yon, melting in distance gray. But each one moves lo a purpose firm, and the winds their sails that fill Like feithful servants speed them all their appointed way.

For each one has a rudder, my dear little lad, with a sinnch man at the wheel, And the rudder is never left to itself, but the will of the man is there. There is nover a moment, day or night, that the vessel does not feel The force of thu purpose that shapes her course and the bolmeman's watchful care.

Some day you will induce your ship, my boy, on life's wide, treacherous seaders as well as to stand the stress of the gale.

And, your hand on the wheel, don't let it flines whatever the tumuit be,

For the will of the man, with the help of God, shall conquer and provail.
